4. Global Sustainability Scholars Network seeking applicants

The GSS Fellows Program offers a 10-week paid professional training experience with a Sustainability Organization for young professionals and/or graduate students from under-represented groups. This program aims to bridge young professionals to careers or graduate school. GSS Fellows are embedded within an international sustainability research project for 10 weeks during the summer months. Fellows are paid a stipend of $8000 for their full participation in the program. For more information and to apply, follow this link: <https://www.gsscholar.org/apply>. GSS Fellows is accepting applications between January 15 until February 28, 2020.

5. The Early Pages Blog Update

Last month on The Early Pages: Collaboration is essential for scientific success. To help you succeed with collaborative projects, Annette Bösmeier introduces a guide specifically for early-career researchers and presents some reflections on both benefits and difficulties in scientific collaboration.
